

Why does it matter if my child arrives late to camp?

Much happens in the first few hours of camp, with implications ranging from personal comfort, to cabin bonding opportunities, to state licensing regulations. For these reasons, regardless of your camper's comfort or experience level with camp, it's important that they arrive near the start of the camp session.